NOTICE OF RESTRICTIONS UNDER THE UNIVERSITY'S STUDENT CODE OF BEHAVIOUR

Dear Harry,

The University has been made aware of an incident concerning you. To understand what has happened, we are inviting you to a meeting to discuss the situation. There is no assumption that you have done anything wrong at this stage, but we take reports of potential misconduct seriously, therefore we now need to investigate and assess whether you have breached the Student Code of Behaviour (the Code).

The information received between 28 October and 6 November, alleges that you have been involved in the following:

- On 23 October, approached Samara (Laboratory Technician) at a bus stop behaving in a concerning manner which caused distress, including but not limited to, fulling faces when discussing the origins of names, invading her personal space by removing a book from her pocket without permission and referring to her in demeaning terms such as "a weirdo" and "cheapskate".
- On 23 October, made comments in the exotic animal unit to staff which have caused concern, such as wanting to lick Colorado river toads.
- On 3 November, approached Samara again at a bus stop and reacted negatively and swore when discussing a request for scientific equipment from the university.

You will appreciate that, given the serious nature of the allegations, the University believes that the accompanying restriction agreement is necessary whilst these allegations are investigated. Please return a signed copy of the restriction agreement to REG.StudentMisconduct@ntu.ac.uk by Monday 10 November.

You are also not permitted to enter the animal unit during the investigation.

This means that until completion of the case, or unless the University advises you otherwise, these restrictions will be in place. I would like to assure you that this is not a sanction but a neutral act pending the outcome of this matter and with concern for your wellbeing and the wellbeing of others.

If the conditions in the restriction agreement are breached, then further precautionary measures may be considered.

Terms of Restrictions

The restrictions have been authorised by the Academic Registrar as the incident falls under the following potential offences of Serious Misconduct, as detailed in Appendix C of the Code, regarding expected standards of behaviour:

- any activity constituting a breach of any University policy on equality and diversity
- any conduct which amounts to harassment (as defined in appendix A)
- aggressive, threatening or intimidating behaviour, indecent, disorderly, offensive or any other unreasonable behaviour or language whether expressed orally or in writing (including electronically and/or via social media)
- misconduct which is motivated by hostility or prejudice based on a person's protected characteristic (sex, race, religion or belief, age, gender reassignment, sexual orientation, pregnancy, disability or marital status) ("hate incident")

In all cases, we advise that you do not make direct or indirect contact with anyone you believe may be involved in the incidents or allegations, as this would be viewed with the utmost seriousness. This includes contact via social media or via a third party. Comment about this case, either from you or someone acting on your behalf, whether through social media or otherwise, would also be viewed with the utmost seriousness.

Meeting Request

In order for this to be fully investigated, you are asked to attend a meeting with me, a Student Conduct Officer, at 11:00 on Tuesday 11 November via Microsoft Teams. The purpose of the meeting is to get your version of events and offer you an opportunity to respond to the information we have received. I will also explain the process to you and answer any related questions.

If you have evidence such as screenshots of calls logs and messages or photos that support your version of events, you are encouraged to provide this by email in advance of the meeting so I can discuss this during the meeting. You are welcome to provide evidence at a later date if you would prefer, or if evidence cannot be acquired in time for the meeting.

Please reply by 12:00 on Monday 10 November to confirm your attendance, or to request an alternative time if the time proposed above is not convenient. You can also request a face-to-face meeting if preferred.

You are strongly encouraged to attend; this will help to conclude this matter as swiftly as possible.

You can bring someone independent of the situation with you to the meeting as a companion for support purposes. This person may be a fellow student/friend/partner/parent/carer or a Students' Union Adviser or mentor. Dedicated members of staff can also support you and a link to NTU's Health and Wellbeing pages can be accessed here: www.ntu.ac.uk/wellbeing.

Please let us know if you will be accompanied and whether a separate meeting link is required if your companion will not be with you.

If you do not have support at this time but would like a key contact from your Academic School or Support Services to be assigned to you for support during this process, please let us know and we will action this as soon as possible.
